

“The Mock Court was fantastic. It was exactly what our staff and management needed.”

Who are we?

Mock Court International (MCI) is a corporate training provider specialising in experiential programs on legislative compliance and business process improvement.

The two delivery methods employed by MCI are Mock Courts™ and hypotheticals.

Traditional class-room style or on-line training is not offered. Our training is interesting, thought provoking and involves significant audience participation.

Each course is facilitated by specialist, legally trained advocates to ensure realism and credibility. MCI has an extensive panel of trainers and subject matter experts offering collectively over 200 years in court room, training and consulting experience.

Our team includes Barristers, practicing and former defence / prosecution lawyers and highly credentialed consultants with many years experience working with clients to improve their businesses.

Hypotheticals are structured around real business challenges.

How does it work?

All the training is designed to be fast-paced, interactive and emotive to evoke the most conducive learning environment.

The Mock Court™ training is usually undertaken in a court room and the courses revolve around a case, based on a real life scenario. Witnesses are called and are subject to cross-examination. Everyone in the audience becomes a “member of the jury” and passes judgment on the accused. A judge’s verdict is then given, followed by a group de-brief.

Hypotheticals are structured around real business challenges (involving legislative non-compliance, business process failing, incident investigations etc) where audience participants break into groups and represent the various stakeholder interests relevant to the subject matter. Hypotheticals can be run on or off site, depending upon the individual client’s requirements.

Learning outcomes common to all courses include a richer appreciation of practical business processes and the implications to both an organisation and individuals of not embracing those processes.

Our courses engage audience
interest immediately and generate positive change.

Who should attend?

Our unique delivery style ensures that each presentation has application from the Managing Director through to front-line personnel.

We encourage clients to invite a cross section of their management team and direct operational staff to highlight the important role each person can play when managing risk and improving business systems. Alternatively, some clients opt for multiple sessions, each one tailored for the various levels of the company so the presentations can be fine-tuned for more in-depth instruction.

Our Mock Court™ and hypothetical programs have a successful track record in both Australia and overseas. Unlike traditional training approaches, MCI's courses engage audience interest immediately and generate positive change, helping organisations to more strategically and effectively manage and grow their businesses.

Our Mock Courts™ and Hypotheticals are successfully incorporated into Conferences, Management, Board and Best Practice Forums and as part of corporate training plans.

Better business training can be fun too!

The next step

Our programs are all about delivering the right messages in an effective way. All courses can be customised to reflect issues topical to your business aligned to your policies and procedures.

Our courses are fun and informative and guaranteed to be a highlight of your training calendar. Contact us to discuss your requirements and obtain a written proposal.

Call us on 1800 85 86 98 or email info@mockcourt.com.au

Punish the guilty

How would your business cope if it was prosecuted or sued?
What is your personal liability?

Keep the innocent nervous

Our training starts at the crisis and works backwards to uncover the importance of clear and effective business process and the role each employee has under your systems.

Mock Court International Pty Ltd

ABN: 37 103 349 435

Phone: 1800 85 86 98

Email: info@mockcourt.com.au

www.mockcourt.com.au

